INSTRUCTOR: JACKIE SANDMEYER

Jackie Sandmeyer is the Founder and Principal of TIX Education Specialists. They received their Bachelor of Science from University of Idaho and Juris Doctor at Willamette University of Law. After creating the country's first statewide Title IX training and technical assistance program for colleges and universities, Jackie sought to fill the need for further capacity in training and consultation related to sexual harassment and interpersonal violence nationally. They have worked with colleges and universities, law enforcement, prosecutors, and community based service providers to identify and create some of the nation's leading models in Title IX and student victim services. From pioneering education based legislation that spread to other states to developing new and emerging campus based investigation techniques, Jackie and their team bring this experience and more to TIX and its clients.

ABOUT: TIX EDUCATION SPECIALISTS

About TIX Education Specialists

TIX Education Specialists sets itself apart from other training and consultation bodies in that it offers guidance and training on not only what is compliant, but what is known to be best practice and trauma-informed. We don’t believe that one model fits all. Instead, TIX brings years of expert experience to identify solutions that serve you and your community best.

Our Mission - Bridging Compliance & Best Practice

Successful responses by schools take not only compliant policies and strategies, but must also include techniques rooted in emerging best practice. While many firms solely provide schools with what the law requires, TIX Edu goes a step further by ensuring that schools understand what implementation looks like, and how mandates integrate with institutional missions. Schools are tasked with the safety of students as well as creating and fostering an environment for students to reach their fullest potential. Let TIX Edu assist with the hard work of identifying the path to get there.

WHAT IS YOUR INSTITUTION’S MISSION WHEN IT COMES TO TITLE IX?

Students and staff often assume the purpose admission of Title IX on campus based on how the news frames Title IX, what friends and colleagues have said, as well as past experiences with institutional systems. Below write down what your institution’s goal is for Title IX response and programs on campus. For example, is prevention an element of your mission? Creating better campus culture? Responding to incidences on campus? Intervening in behavior before it escalates or perpetuates into a pattern of behavior? Creating safe space for students to earn degrees?

WHAT INSTITUTIONAL VALUES DO YOU WANT TO SEE INCORPORATED INTO YOUR TITLE IX PROCESS?

Every institution has a unique mission and set of values that guide the work that it does. These specific values are what draw students and staff to your campus, and can be reflected to those who visit campus or partake in your programs. For example, some campuses focus on small community, diversity and inclusion, religious tenants, experiential based learning, etc. What values does your campus focus on, and how can those be incorporated into your Title IX process? How are they already reflected in your Title IX process? Title IX may be federally mandated, but how we go about meeting those mandates should reflect the campus.

WHAT IS YOUR DESIRED OUTCOME FOR EVERY TITLE IX CASE/REPORT?

How would we describe a case in which we would say that all the Title IX requirements were met AND we served our purpose on campus. What does an ideal outcome in a Title IX case look like? We often seen Title IX issues as a lose-lose situation, and disregard the question of what desired outcomes look like. Regardless of the incident that triggered the process, we have a wealth of control over how next steps and the path forward look for someone. What are ideal outcomes for a Title IX case for all parties involved, for the campus as a whole? What is an ideal experience through the Title IX process?
SEXUAL HARASSMENT:
"Unwelcome conduct that a reasonable person would determine is so severe, pervasive and objectively offensive that if effectively denies person's equal access to education.

QUESTION 1:
Does your institution want to create a policy to respond to the "other" types of sexual harassment and sex discrimination?

QUESTION 2:
If you capture "other" types of conduct, do you use one process provided by the federal regulations or do you use two?
SCOTUS FRAMEWORK:
1. actionable definition of sexual harassment
2. actual knowledge
3. deliberate indifference -

DELIBERATE INDIFFERENCE + RESPONSE:
- support measures offered
- contact complainant and process counsel
- follow grievance procedures
- investigate formal complaints
- respect complainant wishes (with exception)
- dismiss complaints that don't fall under Title IX
NOTICE OF NON-DISCRIMINATION:

“[Institution] does not discriminate on the basis of sex in education programs or activities it operates including admissions and employment. Inquiries about the application of title IX and this part to such recipient may be referred to the recipient's Title IX Coordinator, to the Assistant Secretary, or both.”

PREVALENCE RATES IN SCHOOLS:

Nationally:
_____ in _____ women will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime.

Nationally on Campuses:
_____ in _____ women will be sexually assaulted by time they finish college.
VULNERABLE POPULATIONS ON CAMPUSES:

- LGBTQ students
- students of color
- housing instability
- immigrant and refugee
- deaf and hard of hearing

INTERSECTIONS OF VIOLENCE:
INTERSECTIONS OF VIOLENCE:
STALKING:
- 13% of women report stalking while in college
- 1 in 5 female victims and 1 in 14 male victims experienced stalking between the ages of 11 and 17
- Two-thirds of female victims have been stalked by a current or former intimate partner

WHAT COMES TO MIND WHEN YOU HEAR "STALKING"?

QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER:
1. Is there a course of conduct
2. Would a reasonable person in the reporting party's shoes be fearful?
3. Has respondent been put on notice to stop the conduct?

DEFINING STALKING:
“Engaging in a course of conduct directed at a specific person that would cause a reasonable person to (1) Fear for the person’s safety or the safety of others; or (2) Suffer substantial emotional distress.”

- Increased stress hormones released in body
- Impaired functioning of hippocampus
- Fragmented memories
- Memory recall slow and difficult but still accurate

PUTTING TOGETHER A PUZZLE:
Why learn about trauma and the brain? Integrating trauma-informed practices into our policies and everyday practices is critical to creating a process that not only responds to complaints of harassment and violence, but serves people best.

Adverse Childhood Experiences
Nationally, 1 in 10 children have experienced at least one traumatic experience according to the National Survey of Children’s Health.

We often discuss trauma in terms of acute trauma after an assault. It’s important to know that students can experience a wide spectrum of traumas that can intersect with each other.

Tips to mitigate institutional trauma triggers:
• Check website search keywords to include common terms for Title IX conduct such as “sexual assault” and “rape”.
• Ensure that Title IX Coordinator contact information and reporting information is easily accessible.
• Use vacation responders on email to let students know if you are absent from email or if you frequently have delayed email responses.
• Write down information given verbally in meetings including dates and times of next meeting.
• Avoid terms such as “remember,” “why,” and “alleged” that might have negative connotations.
BIAS, EQUITY & RESPONDENTS

Identifying personal bias as an investigator, equity as defined by Title IX in both investigations and policies as well as best practices in serving respondents.

Learning Objectives:
- develop clear understanding of different types of bias that may affect an investigation.
- respondent rights within an equity lens
- definition of equity within Title IX
- best practices in striving for equity within Title IX

What Is Equity?

Equity Not Equality:

1. individualized
2. appropriate
EQUITY VERSUS EQUALITY:

QUESTIONS TO ASK:
1. access to the process
2. long-term support and "success"

“Opt-Out Advisor Model”

Every student has a right to an advisor of choice. Who that advisor is can often be a point of inequity within the Title IX process. Especially for those students who don't have a strong support system on or off campus, as well as those who can't afford legal representation. The “opt-out” model is one tool that can provide more equity within advisors between parties. Either party ultimately can choose a different advisor of their choice, but both are provided with a well-trained and knowledgeable option to start with.

NOTES:
I. Background

[Complaint, parties and conduct begin investigation.] The complaint brought forward. The Respondent and Complainant as well as when and how the complaint was brought. List parts of the complaint if there are multiple. For example: (1) harassing language (2) inappropriate physical contact (3) sexual misconduct incident. Include dates of incident(s).

[Background and timeline prior to investigation.] What has been the response thus far. Who was the complaint sent to? Did someone reach out to the complainant or respondent? Were there any interim measures or no-contact orders put into place? Include dates and names/title/department of those who has contact with the parties or received or retrieved any information prior to the investigation.

II. Jurisdictional Statement

[Insert institution’s jurisdictional statement. Identify if third party investigator was used.]

III. Applicable Policy and Scope of Investigation

[Policy name, citation and date.] Insert the exact and full text of the policy that is being used to determine whether there is a policy violation. Institutional policies are often amended or changed, and placing the text in the report keeps from confusion if a report needs to be reviewed at a later date. Example: “Sexual Misconduct 1.44(A)(bb) 2018 Institutional Student Conduct Policy.”

[Additional Policy Name, citation and date if necessary.]
IV. Summary of Findings

A brief sentence citing the investigator’s conclusions of fact including types of conduct that could be corroborated. Let the reader know that this finding will be further detailed within the rest of the report.

Note: Investigators can and should come to conclusions of factual findings but should not come to findings of violation. The Decision Maker, through the hearing process, should be utilizing the investigative findings, along with statements and documents provided during the hearing, to apply the institution’s standard of evidence and policy definitions to come to a finding of violation.

V. Investigation

A. Parties

List the parties to the complaint and whether they are the respondent, witness or complainant. Include any necessary information (for example, whether one party is a supervisor of another, or whether a party identifies with a specific cognitive disability) that may affect how the interviews were done or how consent was determined. This portion should be brief.

After naming the parties, the writer should use “Respondent” or “Witness 1” throughout the rest of the report instead of names. This helps to uphold privacy as well as making it easier for the reader to follow along. Example: Student Name (hereafter referred to as Witness 1)...

B. Interviews and Evidence Collected

1. Interviews

[Complainant] [Respondent] [Witness1] This portion of the report reflects the narrative from that specific party’s point of view. Begin with contextual information – when was interview conducted and where? Was it in person, over the phone, skype, etc.?

List out the statement of the part, including the questions asked of each party in relation to which part of the complaint. Try to use quotes where possible. If the party names another party, use brackets and replace the name with “Respondent” or “Witness 1.” As much as possible, write this section in chronological order. Include dates and any necessary contextual information that is provided by the party or additional evidence. If there is specific evidence (such as correspondence between parties) that support the party’s statement or is mentioned by the party, add a citation to the piece of evidence or quote a portion of it.

2. Evidence

List any evidence such as emails, text message screenshots, calendars, job descriptions, maps, etc. that each party provides the investigator.

VI. Factual Findings and Analysis

A. Institutional Standard of Evidence

Provide a brief description of how that standard of evidence is to be interpreted as well as the policy number or citation that states that this evidence is used by the institution for these types of complaints.

B. Factual Findings

List out each conduct under investigation. Example: “Regarding whether Respondent sent unwelcome sexually explicit text messaged to Complainant.”

Under each type of conduct, list the elements that need to be proven under the institution’s policy and whether such elements were met based on party statements and additional evidence. Each complaint should have a paragraph or two describing what information could be corroborated or was disproven that either supported or negated the claim. Include what pertinent information lead you (the fact finder) to come to the conclusions you did.

VII. Factual Conclusion

Similar to the summary of findings at the beginning of the report, this section is a brief sentence citing whether each incident of conduct reported in the complaint occurred using [your institution’s standard of evidence, such as “more likely than not”] under [your institution’s conduct policy].

  - clear language relating to consent for report writing
  - better understand consent and what consent may look like in a Title IX case
CONSENT

WHAT IS CONSENT?

CASE STUDY:

Complainant: Professor reporting about student

A professor comes to your office to report an incident with a student named Michael. Michael is an exchange student. Michael reported to his professor that upon arrival in the U.S. 9 months ago, his host family took his passport, claiming they needed it to complete paperwork related to his stay. After several weeks, Michael asked to have his passport returned but his host family refused.

His host family owns a local family restaurant where he works as a dishwasher when not attending school. Michael initially was glad for the job and hopeful for the opportunity to earn money. After Michael recently missed several classes in a row, the professor asked him why he had not attended. Michael reported to the professor that he had to pick up extra shifts in the restaurant. When he picks up additional shifts the host family does not pay him, keeping his pay to cover “additional costs” related to his room and board.

He also knows that his family has sent him money in letters addressed to him that arrive at the house, but he has never received any of it. He is usually at school when the mail arrives, and when he returns home, the letters from his family have been opened and the money removed. Although the professor has noticed a deterioration in Michael over the past 8 months, Michael is just now telling him all of this. The semester is almost over, and Michael is worried that he won't make his required GPA minimum.
